Executive Summary

The European Competency Framework for Community Professionals working in gang related environments (ECF-Gang) is an evolving tool that provides a reference of 15 competences as required and applied when working in gang related environments, using a common language for competences, skills and proficiency levels that can be understood across Europe.

The ECF-Gang was developed by the partnership of FRAME GANG – European Framework of Competences for Community Professionals in Gang Environments (2015—1-PT01-KA201-013159), a project co-financed by ERASMUS+ programme (KA2 – Strategic Partnerships for adult education), under the scope of Intellectual Output 2, “Development of a European Competency Framework for Community Professionals Working in Gang Related Environments”.

Led by PPKC with the support of IPS_Innovative Prison Systems, the ECF-Gang was achieved through three activities, namely: i) Developing a common list at partnership level, of competence areas; ii) Listing of reference competencies for each identified area and iii) Developing the common centralised framework for all the contributions of partners, in English language.

The aim of this document is to describe the ECF-Gang, providing its aims, stages of development and methodological grounding. First, we will highlight the importance of the framework, as well as the objectives that are intended to be achieved. Then, we will explain the ECF-Gang in detail and the used methodological approach for its construction. The structure of the Framework will also be presented and explanations will be given to its correct use.

Introduction

In 2015, the project European Framework of Competences for Community Professionals in Gang Environments (FRAME GANG) was approved by the European Commission. FRAME GANG is a 3-year transnational European project, coordinated by Fundação “O Século” (Portugal) and with partner organisations from Portugal, Romania, Italy and Lithuania. The FRAME GANG project aims at fostering stability in the European local communities’ context by upgrading and developing the competences in the field of “gang work”. The project puts forward a work plan to develop pilot tools, materials and a training methodology that identify the competences needed, for engaging within local communities affected by gang crime, to harness their local knowledge and meaningfully increase their understanding and capacity to act in gang environments. Its main objectives are:

1. Produce current and appropriate occupation/work profiles for those working with gangs and the impact of gang crime in communities across Europe, a profile relevant within each European partner country and against which new learning outcomes can be identified.
2. Identify in each partner key sectors, organisations and job roles working with gang crime and with the impact of gang crime (police, probation, youth work, health, social services, education, communities).
3. Identify through desk and DACUM consultative research in each partner country the knowledge, skills and competences required to develop capacity and ensure improved and more successful engagements with gangs and gang members operating in order to reduce gang crime in the future.
4. Develop the European Framework of Competencies under the form of an interactive online tool capturing: major areas of competencies for each area, proficiency levels related to EQF and examples of knowledge/skills/attitudes. This will be the fundamental tool to give a common language between professionals, employers VET providers and communities.

It is expected for the FRAME GANG partnership to develop 3 Intellectual Outputs / tangible deliverables:

O1. Definition of the European gang context, professionals working in it and their profiles	O1/A1.1 – Set the research methodology;  O1/A1.2 – Deliver desk research activities;  O1/A1.3. – Deliver field research activities, based on the results of the desk research activities.  O1/A1.4. – Common structure, with a recommendation paper.
O2. Development of a European Competency Framework for Community Professionals working in gang related environments	O2/A2.1. – Developing a common list at a partnership level, of competence areas;  O2/A2.2. – Listing of reference competencies for each identified area;  O2/A2.3. – Developing the common centralised framework with all contributions of the partners, in English language;
O3. Development of an on-line platform to support the structure and content of the previous outputs	O3/A3.1. – Following the model of the European e-Competence Framework, the Output Leader will set up the space and structure of the profile tool;  O3/A3.2. – Partners will provide the content of the previous two outputs to be uploaded onto the platform;  O3/A3.3. – The Output Leader will finalise the on-line space and prepare it for deployment.

The ECF-Gang is the second deliverable of the project, bringing forward the efforts of practitioners in the field from Portugal, Lithuania, Italy and Romania.

Rationale

The European Competency Framework for Community Professionals working in gang related environments (ECF-Gang) was conceived as a “navigation tool” for professionals that support communities affected by gangs, presenting major areas of competencies, specific competencies, proficiency levels connected to EQF, and examples of knowledge/skills.

As the literature shows, compared to non-gang members, gang members commit a disproportionate amount of violent crimes and offenses. Gang behaviour and gang involvement result in short-term and long term negative outcomes for gang-involved youth, their friends and families, and the surrounding communities (United States of America, 2014). While different types of professionals are constantly dealing with gangs and its effects in their workplace environment (whether in a community, a classroom, or a hospital), they lack a common language and mutual understanding of how to address this phenomenon.

In this line of thought, this navigation tool will help all relevant professionals understand what is needed to address gang behaviour and its negative outcomes, supporting a common understanding in a broad application context.

Hence, the ECF-Gang is innovative in recognising that new knowledge and skills are required for the professionals that deal with gangs and the results of gang crime (e.g.: police, security firms, probation service, social workers, teachers/trainers and community activists, volunteers...). Further, the ECF-Gang is based on competence Areas and competences, instead of job profiles, being competence-based approaches more flexible and fostering local personalisation.

Given all the above, the ECF-Gang was built with the following objectives:

1. Building a common understanding of the skills, knowledge and competences needed for professionals working in gang afflicted environments;
2. Providing the learner with a toolkit for effective intervention and communication in a gang related environment;
3. Equipping the learner with the knowledge and understanding of how to work safely in a gang-related environment;
4. Providing an understanding of the social contexts, factors and forces that create, sustain and promote gangs and gang membership;
5. Understanding and applying relevant perspectives from social psychology to facilitate improved practice in working with gangs.

Methodological approach

The starting foundation for the development of the EFC-Gang was Intellectual Output 1, “Definition of the European gang context, professionals working in it and their profiles”, namely the results of the desk and DACUM consultative research conducted in each partner country (Romania, Italy, Lithuania and Portugal). In specific, the desk research allowed for an overview of the gang phenomena in each partner country and for an identification of the professionals working in the communities affected by gangs, violent youth and street violence. Following this, the DACUM (Develop A Curriculum) methodology was used to engage the professionals working in the communities in analysing their own professions regarding gang related issues. The field research activities have resulted in a country report on the profile that shows the duties and tasks performed in the occupation. The profile also lists necessary worker traits and attitudes, general skills and knowledge, and the tools and equipment the worker uses, all in the context of working with gang afflicted communities.<sup>1</sup>

Based on the above, the development of Output 2 was structured around the following steps:

A2.1. Developing a common list at partnership level, of competence areas;

A2.2. Listing of reference competencies for each identified area;

A2.3. Developing the common centralised framework for all the contributions of partners, in EN language;

<sup>1</sup> For more detailed information about Output 1, please download the full Research Report at <http://www.framegang.org/library.html>

1. Developing a common list of competence areas

The first activity started with a short-term staff training event in Kaunas, where the partner organisations together with relevant stakeholders working in the field (social workers, psychologists, community workers, etc.) reviewed the previous output's results, ran exercises on competency identification and detailing, and also discussed the working methodology.

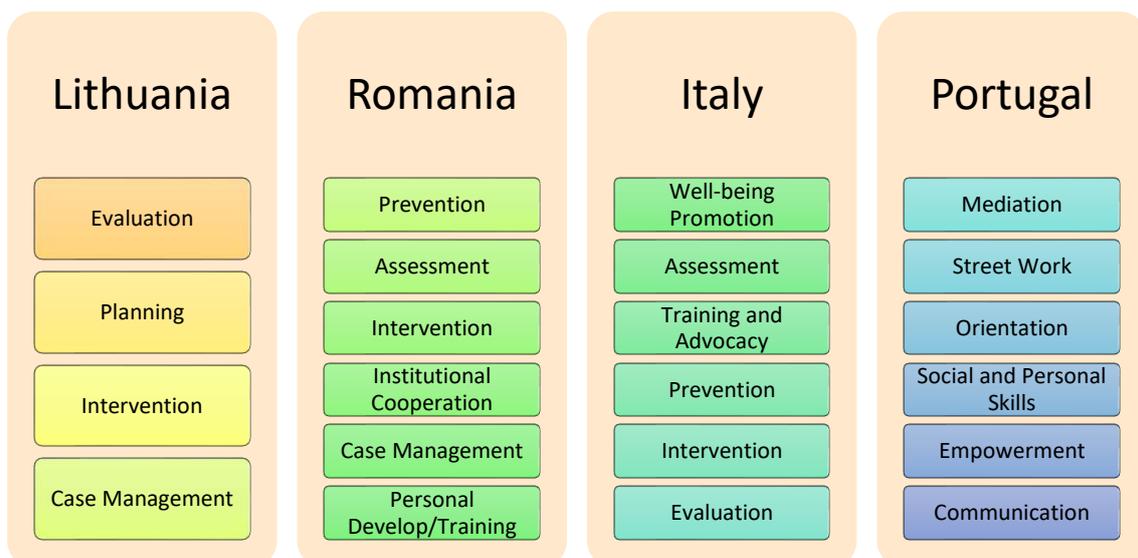

A clarification, among partners, was made regarding the concept of competence.

According to the EQF - European Qualification Framework - (European Commission, 2017), a competence is 'the proven ability to use knowledge, skills and personal, social and/ or methodological abilities, in work or study situations and in professional and personal development'. As such, competence is a construction of these three elements: knowledge, skills and attitudes. Our approach is consistent with this definition, since it encompasses social and personal abilities, as gang-related competences are holistic units that express complex behaviours. Following this view, competence areas are a set of competences clustered according to specific criteria.

Based on Output 1 "Definition of the European gang context, professionals working in it and their profiles", all relevant professions in gang and community work context were listed. Then, common areas of activities, when working in communities afflicted by gangs and interacting with gang issues, were identified, providing the criteria for the establishment of competence areas.

As such, different areas of competence were identified, by partner country:

Based on the above, partners identified the following six common competence areas: Planning; Assessment; Personal Development/Training; Prevention; Intervention and Case Management.

2. Listing of reference competencies for each identified area

After having the common competence areas, partners were asked to pinpoint all relevant competencies that different professionals from community need to have in order to run activities targeted at gang environments in their national contexts (Portugal, Romania, Italy and Lithuania). It was decided that partners had to select between 4 and 10 competencies for each area, providing a short operational description.

The subsequent task was to create a list of common competences to all countries represented in the project. As such, the partnership gathered 28 common competences, distributed as follows:

- a) Planning - 4 competences, namely:
  - Planning and organising;
  - Strategic decision making;
  - Developing others;
  - Values & Ethics;
- b) Assessment - 4 competences, namely:
  - Needs assessment;
  - Follow-up;
  - Vocational assessment;
  - Risk and safety assessment;
- c) Personal development/training - 5 competences, namely:
  - Knowledge of restorative practices;
  - Resilience;
  - Adaptability;
  - Understanding the specifics of a Gang
  - Specific literature on youth gangs;
- d) Prevention - 4 competences, namely:
  - Normative behaviour promotion;

- Civics and citizenship promotion;
- Positive youth development;
- Family engagement;

e) Intervention - 7 competences, namely:

- Networking;
- Community empowerment;
- Mediation;
- Community resources application;
- Counselling;
- Outreach methods and strategies;
- Advocacy;

f) Case Management - 5 competences, namely:

- Effective communication;
- Cultural sensitivity;
- Mentoring;
- Conflict management;
- Empathy;

12

Once the first dimension was downsized, the same occurred with the second dimension – Competences – reduced to a total of 15 competences, distributed as follows:

1. Planning - 3 competences, namely:

- Planning and organising;
- Strategic thinking;
- Values and ethics;

2. Assessment - 2 competences, namely:

- Needs assessment;
- Risk assessment;

3. Personal development - 3 competences, namely:

- Interpersonal and group relationships;
- Emotional Resilience;
- Crisis intervention and prevention;

4. Prevention - 3 competences, namely:

- Youth mentoring;

- Family learning;
  - Community engagement;
5. Intervention: - 4 competences, namely:
- Networking;
  - Mediation;
  - Counselling;
  - Outreach

3. Developing the common centralised framework

For the structure of the ECF-Gang, the partners analysed and evaluated other existing frameworks and agreed finally to adopt a four-dimensional approach, based on the European e-Competence Framework and its four dimensions (www.ecompetences.eu):

Dimension 1	Six competence areas: Planning; Assessment; Personal development/training; Prevention; Intervention; Case management
Dimension 2	A set of reference Competences for each area, with a generic description for each competence. Aim - to identify an average of 4 to 10 competencies for each area. Each competence will have a definition.
Dimension 3	Proficiency levels of each Competence (related to EQF): from e-1 to e-5, which are related to EQF levels 3-8.
Dimension 4	Samples of knowledge and skills (look example) relate to Competences in dimension 2. They are provided to add value and context.

This structure is based on competence areas (dimension 1) and competences (dimension 2), instead of job profiles, providing a more flexible approach and fostering local personalisation. Within dimension 1 “Competence areas”, concepts are more general and fitting different professional profiles considered relevant to the community professionals, while in dimension 2: “Competences”, descriptors are specific and directly related to community afflicted by the gang phenomenon contexts. Dimension 3 provides level assignments that are appropriate to each competence; and dimension 4 provides short sample specifications of knowledge and skills but the list is not exhaustive.

3.1. Dimension 3: the ECF-Gang Levels

The purpose of levels within a framework is to provide benchmarks with which framework users can readily identify performance at a predefined capability level.

Levels are often described and given a numeric abbreviation. For example, the European Qualifications Framework (EQF) uses eight levels (1 to 8). To provide consistency, each level is identified through a common set of parameters; for EQF, the descriptors deployed are knowledge, skills and competence.

Within the EQF, competence is described in terms of responsibility and autonomy, and Competences, Skills and Knowledge are described in terms of height, depth and breadth within an increasing context complexity.

For each ECF-Gang competence, suitable proficiency level specifications have been constructed, ranging from level 1, the lowest to level 5 the highest, based on a behavioural dimension, as shown in the table below:

14

Both perspectives – the ECF-Gang and the EQF – are interrelated as qualifications contribute to competence development. It is possible to build a bridge between the two frameworks by using comparable levels.

The next paragraphs describe the EQF levels approach and the methodology adopted by the ECF-Gang to relate to the EQF in a transparent way.

After discussion, the partnership decided that the proficiency levels should cover the levels 1 and 2 of the EQF (European Qualifications Framework), since this navigation tool was developed to be used by community professionals that work in gang environments, without having any responsibility or formal training to address the phenomenon. The proficiency levels were readjusted and described as follows:

ECF-Gang Proficiency Levels	EQF levels	Knowledge	Skills	Competences
Level 5	8	Knowledge at the most advanced frontier of a field of work or study and at the interface between fields.	The most advanced and specialised skills and techniques, including synthesis and evaluation, required to solve critical problems in research and/or innovation and to extend and refine existing knowledge or professional practice.	Demonstrate substantial authority, innovation, autonomy, scholarly and professional integrity and sustained commitment to the development of new ideas or processes at the forefront of work or study contexts including research.
	7	Highly specialised knowledge, some of which is at the forefront of knowledge in the field of work or study, as the basis for original thinking and/or research Critical awareness of knowledge issues in a field and at the interface between different fields.	Specialised problem-solving skills required in research and/or innovation in order to develop new knowledge and procedures and to integrate knowledge from different fields.	Manage and transform work or study contexts that are complex, unpredictable and require new strategic approaches; take responsibility for contributing to professional knowledge and practice and/or for reviewing the strategic performance of teams.
Level 4	6	Advanced knowledge of a field of work or study, involving a critical understanding of theories and principles.	Advanced skills, demonstrating mastery and innovation, required to solve complex and unpredictable problems in a specialised field of work and/or research.	Manage complex technical or professional activities or projects, taking responsibility for decision-making in unpredictable work or study contexts; take responsibility for managing professional development of individuals and groups.
	5	Comprehensive, specialised, factual and theoretical knowledge within a field of work or study and an awareness of the boundaries of that knowledge.	A comprehensive range of cognitive and practical skills required to develop creative solutions to abstract problems.	Exercise management and supervision in contexts of work or study activities where there is unpredictable change; review and develop performance of self and others.
Level 3	4	Factual and theoretical knowledge in broad contexts within a field of work or study.	A range of cognitive and practical skills required to generate solutions to specific problems in a field of work or study.	Exercise self-management within the guidelines of work or study contexts that are usually predictable, but are subject to change; supervise the routine work of others, taking some responsibility for the evaluation and improvement of work or study activities.

	3	Knowledge of facts, principles, processes and general concepts, in a field of work or study.	A range of cognitive and practical skills required to accomplish tasks and solve problems by selecting and applying basic methods, tools, materials and information.	Take responsibility for completion of tasks in work or study; adapt own behaviour to circumstances in solving problems.
Level 2	2	Basic factual knowledge of a field of work or study	Basic cognitive and practical skills required to use relevant information in order to carry out tasks and to solve routine problems using simple rules and tools	Work or study under supervision with some autonomy
Level 1	1	Basic general knowledge	Basic skills required to carry out simple tasks	Work or study under direct supervision in a structured context

3.2. Dimension 4: Knowledge & Skills

In dimension 4, partners had to identify samples of knowledge and skills included in each competence identified and defined in dimensions 2 and 3. Accordingly, dimension 4 details examples of core elements / components related to the contents of the competences. The main aim of this dimension is to provide added value and context to the framework users, and it is not intended to be exhaustive.

Definitions used in the ECF-Gang:

- Knowledge represents the "set of know-what" (e.g. youth development theories, mediation tools...) and can be described by operational descriptions;
- Skill is the "ability to carry out managerial or technical tasks". Managerial and technical skills are components of competences and specify some core abilities that form a competence.

Since the partnership agreed to build this tool to be an operational tool for lifelong learning process of community professionals, and the basis for a structured educational development in training providers, the dimension 4 of ECF-Gang was developed according to Bloom's Taxonomy approach of Educational Objectives for the Cognitive Domain and its six categories, namely (Anderson & Krathwohl (2001):

1. Knowledge;
2. Comprehension;
3. Application;
4. Analysis;
5. Synthesis;
6. Evaluation;

This approach allows a differentiation between cognitive skill levels and calls attention to learning objectives that require higher levels of cognitive skills and, therefore, lead to deeper learning and transfer of knowledge and skills to a greater variety of tasks and contexts.

Cognitive Level	Illustrative Verbs	Definitions
Knowledge	arrange, define, describe, duplicate, identify, label, list, match, memorize, name, order, outline, recognize, relate, recall, repeat, reproduce, select, state	remembering previously learned information
Comprehension	classify, convert, defend, discuss, distinguish, estimate, explain, express, extend, generalize, give example(s), identify, indicate, infer, locate, paraphrase, predict, recognize, rewrite, report, restate, review, select, summarize, translate	grasping the meaning of information
Application	apply, change, choose, compute, demonstrate, discover, dramatize, employ, illustrate, interpret, manipulate, modify, operate, practice, predict, prepare, produce, relate schedule, show, sketch, solve, use write	applying knowledge to actual situations
Analysis	analyze, appraise, breakdown, calculate, categorize, classify, compare, contrast, criticize, derive, diagram, differentiate, discriminate, distinguish, examine, experiment, identify, illustrate, infer, interpret, model, outline, point out, question, relate, select, separate, subdivide, test	breaking down objects or ideas into simpler parts and seeing how the parts relate and are organized
Synthesis	arrange, assemble, categorize, collect, combine, comply, compose, construct, create, design, develop, devise, explain, formulate, generate, plan, prepare, propose, rearrange, reconstruct, relate, reorganize, revise, rewrite, set up, summarize, synthesize, tell, write	rearranging component ideas into a new whole
Evaluation	appraise, argue, assess, attach, choose, compare, conclude, contrast, defend, describe, discriminate, estimate, evaluate, explain, judge, justify, interpret, relate, predict, rate, select, summarize, support, value	Making judgements based on internal evidence or external criteria

The EFC-Gang structure and overview

The European Framework of Competencies for Community Professionals working in Gang Environments is structured from four dimensions. These dimensions reflect different levels of competences requirements for a better work performance for professionals working in and with community afflicted communities and are specified as follows:

- Dimension 1: reflects four areas of competence, namely: Planning, Assessment, Personal development, Prevention and Intervention;
- Dimension 2: defines a set of competences for each area, with reference definitions for 15 different competences in total;
- Dimension 3: sets out proficiency levels of each competence (level 1 to level 5), which are related to EQF levels 1 to 8;
- Dimension 4: provides samples of knowledge and skills related to the competences in dimension 2, intended to add value and context and not to be considered exhaustive.

Concluding remarks

As shown in the literature, gangs present a serious challenge to communities across the world, since little is known about the dynamics, characteristics and trends (Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, 2010). The ECF-Gang will help the community professionals working in gang related environments by presenting the needed competencies, knowledge and skills to deal, combat and prevent this phenomenon, aiming at reaching a common language and mutual understanding of how to address this issue.

The present tool was developed with the partners' consensus, backed up by theoretical and literature references that were combined with the partnership's expertise and practical experience in the field. However, some methodological challenges were encountered while developing this tool:

- Making the partners' views explicit;
- Achieving agreement on possible choices and decisions;
- Formalising the decisions;
- Structuring the decisions and choices within the ECF-Gang.

This navigation tool, as explained before, linked DACUM (as a tool to create curricula) with Bloom's Taxonomy and the EQF levels. Those tools are destined to guide the lifelong process of professionals and to provide pedagogical structure for training providers interested in developing a new educational experience. The partnership is quite aware of the challenges and opportunities involved in building a common European framework, considering the topic of concern (youth gang and violence), its singularity and context-driven features. It is, therefore, important to note that the ECF-Gang is open to improvements and upgrades since professionals with long practical and theoretical experience might consider adding other areas of competency or competences.

The ECF-Gang navigation tool will be available in an online platform to support its development and further connection with educational / training resources at national (in the partner countries) and international levels.
